The New Hork Eimes

Washington - By a vote of 61-29. the Senate turned back Friday a coalition of midwesterners and environmentalists who sought to delay licensing of a Trans-Alaska oil pipeline while a Canadian route is studied.

The vote appeared to presage easy passage of the pipeline bill when it comes up for a final vote on Tuesday.

The bill, known as the Federal Lands Right-of-Way Act of 1973. would end the restriction con-

The proposal beaten back so decisively Friday was offered by Sens. Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota and Birch Bayh of Indiana, both Democrats. Their amendment would have delayed issuance of the Alaska pipeline license for eight months pending negotiations with Ottawa and a comparative study.

Environmentalists, in what has become a holy war with the major oil companies, have bitterly opposed the pipeline route to Valdez, Alaska, and supertanker shuttle from that ice-free port to refineries on Puget Sound, Wash.

The environmentalists have contended that the 48-inch-thick line would run through earthquake-prone country and that a disturbance could rupture it and flood the surrounding terrain with hot crude oil. The environmentalists and many Canadians have also expressed fear that sooner or later one of the big tankers would have an accident, collision or grounding, that would cause pollution to the waters and coves of British Columbia and Washington.

Some midwestern members of Congress would like oil from Alaska's North Slope to move through Canada's Mackenzie River valley and the provinces for delivery to the upper Midwest. These members and some from the East contended that direct delivery would mean lower prices and better protection against shortages for the Midwest and the East.

Construction should begin some time after Sept. 1, if the city budgets for the projects.

Bowmaster said UPCO believes eventually there will be no parking on 48th; hence, the organization and its streets task force have proposed changing the traffic flow pattern.

Bowmaster said Uni Place businessmen, the mayor and City Council reacted favorably to a possible change. UPCO has been sounding out residents as to their needs and has met with the city traffic engineers.

The result was formation of an UPCO committee, Joint Effort on Traffic (JET), bolstered by the Uni Place Businessmen's Organization, whose members have made a "great contribution in serving on the task force," Bowmaster said.

Although no final decisions have been made about the street plan, UPCO has tentatively accepted many features of the design drawn by Nebraska University architecture student Les 'Regardless of what happens with traffie, the parking situation is going to get worse as business grows," Bredthauer said.

According to a survey UPCO made, businessmen favor four lanes of traffic on 48th with no parking, but only if the street needn't be

The plan calls for a one-way pair south on 47th and north on 49th, reconnecting traffic with 48th above and below the business district.

Traffic on 48th would remain two-way, Bredthauer said, but winding in a "serpentine effect with beauty spots.

Semi-malls (with some traffic) are possibilities on Baldwin from 48th to 50th leading to Nebraska Weslevan, and on St. Paul from 48th to 49th; a full mall would extend from 49th to 50th.

Malls would "serve people's needs better," Bredthauer said, with walkways and benches

'We're pretty optimistic at this point" that the project will be accomplished, he said. Yet there are 'other things that we feel are crucially important."

UPCO has formed a Neighborhood Council to provide leadership for a neighborhood block organization. It will determine what improvements residents want in seven areas of Uni Place.

personal testimony from President Nixon and access to any government documents which might shed light on who knew or did what and when. The White House has said the committee will get neither.

On Friday, Ervin, the committee chairman, said that if that White House position remains unchanged after his meeting with the President, the committee probably will vote to subpoena the sought after White House papers.

"I believe the entire committee would vote to do so," the North Carolina Democrat said in an interview on NBC's "Today"

Whether Nixon's bout with viral pneumonia will delay their session was unclear. Before the day's Watergate hearings opened, Ervin told newsmen he believed the original intent was to hold the meeting next week and said he still hopes to do so. During his television interview

Ervin made one of his strongest appeals so far to Nixon to come forward and testify in person before the committee.

"I have no doubt of the fact that there was a cover-up," he said. "There is one human being on the face of the earth who is in a better position, of all the earth's inhabitants, to show that the President had no knowledge of any of these very peculiar circumstances "There is only one human their support of the President.

After charging that the hearings were not carrying out legitimate legislative functions, Curtis read into the record a sheaf of letters he said he had received from throughout the country supporting the President and attacking the Senate investigators.

The letters, he said, came from "patriotic-thinking Americans" who agreed with him that the hearings should be stopped.

President Nixon was deeply concerned in May that he had not found out sooner about the Watergate cover-up, according to Richard A. Moore, a White House official who saw the President often throughout the spring. Moore told the committee that Nixon had remarked to him in a private meeting on May 8: "I have racked my brain, I have searched my mind. Were there any clues I should have seen that should have tipped me off?" (More on Page 2.)

Washington — The President's viral pneumonia is likely to keep him in the hospital and reduce his ability to work for a week or so, his physicians said, but the probable outlook is complete recovery. Dr. Sol Katz, professor of medicine at Georgetown University, called in as a consultant, said the President was moderately ill, and that viral pneumonia could vary from a mild to a very severe and incapacitating illness.

Moore Insists Nixon

House lawyer Richard A. Moore insisted Friday that President Nixon knew nothing of official entanglement in Watergate despite early published disclosures about the case. He said the President relied on FBI and grand jury investigations. "The fact is that the President was operating with the knowledge before him," Moore said in a machine-gun interrogation by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., chairman of the Senate

Watergate committee. "He had no intimation, it is my firm conviction, that would have triggered a clue that a cover-up was going on," Moore

Moore told the hearing he believes Nixon found out about involvements and cover-up in the case on March 21, 1973. And he admitted that he, too, didn't confide his suspicions to the President because he had no concrete facts

"I thought this thing was coming to a head," Moore said. "But I did not feel I had anything except hearsay and gossip and rumor, but I was sure beginning

A. He was telling quite a bit. At that point Ervin interjected he didn't think the question was proper. It precipitated a quick exchange between the two insisted. Finally, Moore said "I kind of go along with the notion that if it had happened he might well have told me.

Gurney asked whether Dean ever mentioned that he was going to say the President knew about the cover-up.

A. No. sir.

Q. But there was nothing to indicate to you that Dean knew the President was involved in or knew about the cover-up at Watergate?

A. That is correct. Ervin led Moore through a long chain of disclosures in the news media beginning last September. "Dean didn't do anything to keep those people from reading newspapers, listening to radio and watching television?" Ervin asked at one point.

Moore conceded that was the

And Ervin again asked if the news media "didn't proclaim it to everyone who would read, listen or would watch?'

"Yes sir." Moore said. Ervin: You take The Washington Post, don't you? Moore: I take two copies.

Ervin: And didn't you read one or the other of those two Ervin: And wasn't the thing you were most interested in reading at that time were matters relating to the Watergate? Was anything more important?

Moore: Yes, the inauguration was coming up. I was one of those who believed the President and the White House were not involved, though it was a matter of interest. Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-

Ga., said to Moore: "It seems to me you were derelict in your duty not to in-

Anderson Denies Martin Resignation

By DON BEMAN

United Press International Dr. Jack Anderson, state institutions director, denied Friday reports that Dr. Louis Martin, a psychiatrist at the Hastings Regional Center, has resigned

"This isn't accurate," Anderson told United Press International. "I have talked to him personally several times recently and he expressed to me no resignation and is still on the department staff."

But at the same time, Anderty a resignation could be forthcoming at some future

Anderson said that on his order to Hastings Regional Center Director Dr. Charles Landgraf, Martin has been relieved of his duties as clinical director at Hastings and assigned to a special project "because of the strained relationship' between Martin and Landgraf.

Requested By Anderson "I officially, through the superintendent (Landgraf) of course, requested his relief from his duties there and his assignment to a project here in my office," the director said.

The project, he said, is to last eight days and is an evaluation of the use of automatic data processing procedures in handling medical records.

At the end of that time, Martin is scheduled to go on vacation to Europe, Anderson said.

When Martin returns, the director said he "very probably will have reached a conclusion as to his future."

Conference Eyes Shortage Of Fuel

By DOMINICK COSTELLO Farm Editor

Columbus - Concern over the supply of tractor fuel and vocational agricultural instructors were main topics at the Agribusiness and Natural Resources Occupational Education Conference at Platte College here Friday.

Dr. James Horner, chairman of the department of agriculture education at UNL, told the conference delegates that a critical shortage of vocational agricultural teachers was developing.

"We only graduated 30 teachers this year and there are 60 openings. Vocational agriculture is one area in teaching where there is a critical shortage of teachers available,"

Horner blamed the shortage on a dropping enrollment in college, increased interest in technical school training, higher salaries in jobs outside the teaching field in agriculturerelated business and the end of the war

Encourage Students

Horner called upon the vocational agricultural teachers at the conference to encourage their students to consider a career in the teaching field.

"We have new schools every year that want to have a vocational agricultural department and more schools are seeking a second vocational teacher for their existing agricultural departments," he

Horner noted that most vocational agricultural teaching graduates carry more than one major which makes them particularly attractive as industrial

'We will use 203 billion gallons of diesel fuel equivalent to harvest this year's corn crop in Nebraska. If we adopted all the possible fuel saving practices now known to man we could cut this back to 71 million gallons of diesel fuel equivalent," said Dr. Bill Splinter, chairman of the department of agriculture engineering at UNL.

Charles Chace of the Nebraska Petroleum Council said there would be enough fuel to harvest and dry the crop with fuel for home heating if people would all help conserve supplies, beginning immediately.

"I never thought I would hear myself telling people to drive less, but I am doing it. We have to drive fewer miles, use car pools, ride the bus when possible, use both heat and the air conditioner a little less and we will get by," Chace said.

Chace noted that he had a collection of newspaper clippings from stories about speeches he had made as long as 12 years ago predicting there would be a fuel shortage if something wasn't done to prevent one

Ruins Dug Up Near Kearney

Kearney (UPI) — A University of Nebraska anthropology class has unearthed ruins of two prehistoric Indian groups northwest of Kearney dating back to between 500 A.D. and 1000 A.D.

Peter Bleed, NU professor of anthropology heading the project, said the ruins apply to the Woodland group dating back to 500 A.D. and the upper Republican group dating back to

Most of the finds, Bleed said, indicate that the groups either lived in small villages or romaed in bands, were primarily agrarian and showed little signs of violence.

'We've had quite a successful summer," Bleed said.

Most of the finds, Bleed said, were located on cliffs overlooking rivers or small streams. He said the Woodland site contained charred walnut shells, a variety of bird bones and ones of other animals.

The Upper Republican group appeared to have been engaged in corn agriculture and utilized the wild resources of the plains.

"We have found remains of abandoned houses, which for some reason were left in favor of a newer area," he said, "perhaps because the local fields were no longer producing.

Bleed said the Woodland site was buried nine feet deep. He firm now reportedly uses water said the houses appeared to have from the municipal supply for been made of poles covered with a layer or two of brush and towers to lessen the amount earth.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By VIRGINIA PAYETTE

(Note: William O. Dobler, The Star's editor, is on vacation. Today's column is by humorist Virginia Payette.)

NEW YORK - "Until hell freezes over" isn't the ultimate grabber it used to be. The way the storm gods are acting up this year, there might — even now — be icicles on the Devil's whiskers.

Where it should have snowed, it didn't. New York City got only a 2.8-inch frosting and New England ski resorts almost went broke. But there were Yankee-type blizzards in Georgia, the Carolinas and Texas.

The Pacific Northwest, where in some parts it seems as if it rains most of the time, had a drought. In the Midwest, where farmers pray for rain, they got a record-breaking

For 77 days the Mississippi River covered 10 million acres in five states, forced 30,000 people out of their homes, and did damage over $200 million.

So far this year there have been 800 tornadoes, including an incredible 200 over Memorial Day weekend. Another record-breaker. They didn't stay in the Midwest like they were supposed to, either. Twister alerts went up as far east as New York.

Something strange happened to spring, too. In the Northeast, where it's normally mild and sunny, it turned out cold and wet. The April showers arrived on schedule — and then hung around for May . . . June . . . July!

Things were just as freaky in California. Talk to the Chamber of Commerce boys and they'll tell you June is their nicest month, sunny and mild.

But not this year. June came in breathing fire, and folks in Southern California sweltered in 100-degree heat. Even Oakland, where they shiver without a sweater at this time of year, went from a normal 68 to 107.

New Englanders are still shoveling mud from their homes and highways after early July floods that, in one day alone, dumped six inches of rain on Vermont and New

If it's any comfort, meteorologists say you can blame most of this wacky weather on the jet stream. That's that mile-wide river of cold air that zips from the Pacific to the Atlantic at speeds up to 300 miles an hour.

Well, the polar stream, out of Alaska, was a month late this year. And while nobody will come right out and say so, most of the experts have a hunch that's what's behind this topsy-turvy weather.

Now we are officially entering the hurricane season. Alice was first on the scene, but she came and went without much fuss. However, hurricane watchers in Miami have worked up a "disaster potential" warning system for her sisters (Brenda, Christine, Delia, etc.) if and when they blow in.

Even the hurricane business is all mixed up. Last year, for instance, a rare combination of low sea temperatures and erazy winds made 1972 the quietest season in 42 years. There were only four - and three of them died at sea

But then there was Agnes, and she was a whole season unto herself. Or, as an Army engineer put it, "the greatest national disaster in our history.

Agnes swirled in with floods that killed 122 people destroyed 5,000 homes and damaged 11,000, left 400,000 homeless, and did nearly $3.5 billion in property damage.

The boys with the weather charts are pretty philosophical about it all. "Everything comes out even," says a New York meteorologist. "If it's raining on you, the sun is shining on somebody else."

WASHINGTON - With the has taken place." price of mailing a letter likely to reach 10 cents early next year, the Senate Post Office Committee is taking a hard look at the decline in delivery service.

The results of the postal investigation aren't due to be reported to the Senate until August 31. A progress report, however, has been submitted to Chairman Gale McGee, D-Wyo. Here are the confidential findings:

-The new postal managers put cutting costs ahead of improving service. "At the management level," states the progress report, "a conspicuous overemphasis of cost-cutting produced severe deterioration in postal service standards."

-In their eagerness to economize, the officials also went on a firing spree before mechanization was ready to replace manpower.

-"By the Spring of 1973," adds the report, "the overall profile of the postal service was an uneven one. There was evidence of improvement overshadowed by areas of deterioration.

-Nevertheless, Congress hasn't given up on the postal reorganization, which transformed the Post Office Department into an independent from low population areas of government corporation.

Born on Aug. 15, 1817, in Frederick County, Va., Washington was adopted by a white couple who took him with them to the frontier country of Missouri. He had no formal schooling.

As a young man he operated a sawmill in St. Joseph and got his first taste of racial injustice. A white man refused to pay him for a load of lumber, so Washington sued him. Even though free, Washington discovered he possessed no rights in the state.

A petition to the Missouri Legislature eventually won him limited rights as a citizen.

party back together, and to toss man for his beliefs.' his cap over the wall of race.

Evoking the "Spirit of America" on the Fourth of July, Kennedy did not shrink from using the Kennedy tragedies to scale that wall: "George Wallace almost lost his life - he sits before you in a wheelchair today because of his belief in that spirit. Two of my brothers have been killed because they shared that belief."

In one deft passage, he played upon his audience's resentment toward northern hypocrisy on racial matters, and said nothing that would offend civil rights activists, and reprised his theme of Kennedy-Wallace kinship of tragic violence.

. Let no one think I come

Edward Kennedy went to justice which has proven to be as Decatur, Ala. - a city named deeply embedded and resistant after the man who said "our in the cities of the North as in country, right or wrong" - to the counties of the South . . . we salute Gov. " The man in San Clemente himself would have applauded "it is not the right of government to tell people how to live .

公公公

In the long-run, these moves to heal party wounds will prove more important than the immediate news lead of his speech an uninspired and unavoidable justice-must-be-done shot at the President about Watergate. Ironically, his strictures were cast in vintage Nixon style — a series of "some will say's," setting up and knocking down strawmen.

Kennedy's Decatur speech, however, is not to be nitpicked his appearance there itself was a major political turning point. Not only did it mark the beginning of a serious effort to reconstruct the old Democratic coalition, but it happily meant the ending — at least for a long time — or the steady injection of vitriol into the body politic. We may have passed the peak of the politics of us-against-them.

For 16 years, the political operatives known as "Kennedy men" and "Nixon men" have been sisters under their skins. Like the Colonel's Lady and Judy O'Grady, their styles were different but their unwavering determination to win was strikingly similar. The Nixon men admired the way the Kennedy men stuck by their friends (the aging Charles Buckley for boss in the Bronx, the unqualified Francis Morrissey for judge in Massachusetts) and punished their enemies (the humiliation of Adlai Stevenson at the U.N., the emasculation of Lyndon Johnson as vice president, even — with a fine concern for detail — the tax audits of Richard Nixon as private citizen.)

The Kennedy men (the label given them was "Irish Mafia", WASHINGTON - Sen. to lecture you on that racial in- as unfair an ethnic slur as "the Germans") taught the Nixon men in the 1960 campaign the value of personal loyalty, and the uses of tight organizational discipline, monitored by somebody who could be called Kenny O'Haldeman.

That lesson of Watergate, conventional wisdom holds, harms a Kennedy candidacy. The voters are more likely to choose their next leader more on the basis of character than charisma, we are told; some little old lady in tennis shoes is bound to haunt Kennedy rallies with a "Nobody Died at Watergate" placard: the gleeful condemnation of illegal security operations could be vitiated by the revelation of similar exploits in the Kennedy administration.

But conventional wisdom, like Nixon's "those who" and Kennedy's "some will say" is wrong. The lesson of Watergate will ultimately benefit Kennedy in a far more fundamental way:

He may grasp, as very few of the closest aides of his brothers or of Richard Nixon ever grasped, the notion that a credo that says "If you're not for us, you're against us" is incredibly stupid. To understand that, as Kennedy shows signs of doing, is to begin to figure out how to acquire and wield power in a democracy.

George Corley Wallace is not "with" Kennedy, but today he and his followers - North and South - are that much less against Kennedy. Does this mean that principle is being trimmed by both segregationists and integrationists - that the causes of social justice or states' rights are being compromised on the altar of crass party politics?

Of course it does, and the country is better off. To demand ideological purity is to add to the sum of hatred in the nation; the fuzzy, confusing, opportunistic, back-scratching politics of the big tent set the stage for the deals, accommodations and compromises which may infuriate the true believers but satisfy most of the people.

Wallace has been the Marshal Tito of the Democrats, and no party can say now where he or his support is going in 1976. Just as it took a Nixon to end the cold war, it took a Kennedy to open up the competition for the Wallace voter - and our political system is the healthier

The Poor And The Work Ethic

'working poor," who are not welfare poor," who are? Is it that the working poor have jobs. Or that those jobs will lead them inevitably out of poverty? Or that they are motivated by the 'work ethic" while the welfare poor take handouts?

Well, the working poor do have jobs, but so do many of the welfare poor. But in neither case is there much chance that work will lead the worker out of poverty. As for the work ethic, both the working poor and the welfare poor usually have it in about the same degree, but it doesn't do them much good because the only jobs available to them are low-paid and lead

If a working-poor person or a welfare-poor person also happens to be a woman, she's even worse off; because even within the desperate world of the low-wage earner, sexism is rampant and women are given the last desirable jobs and paid the smallest wages.

These are some of the major conclusions in an important study of a random sample of

NEW YORK — What is the Detroit. Commissioned by the difference between the Department of Labor, the study was made by Louis A. Ferman, despised in America, and the research director of the Institute of Labor and Industrial Relations at the University of Michigan, and Joe A. Miller, now of the Pennsylvania State University faculty. Ferman and Miller have found, to put it simply, that most of what the public thinks about welfare recipients is a stereotype with little basis in fact; and that since much congressional and administrative policy-making is based on the same stereotype, most programs to "get people off welfare" - let alone what is left of those to "get people out of poverty" — are going nowhere.

Their study found, perhaps most important, that among the Detroit poor (who were nearly 85% women) "there were few differences between the working welfare recipients and nonrecipient low-wage workers with respect to personal characteristics or background." And for either category, work 'did not appreciably alter the economic resources or life situation."

In fact, "if the non-recipient low-wage workers were a standard, then getting off welfare more than a thousand low-wage completely would not really imearners and welfare recipients in prove" life for the so-called welfare poor. Besides, a surprising number of them ARE working - 94% of the male welfare recipients studied had worked more than 50% of the time covered by the study as against only 90% of male nonrecipients. Among women, a majority of both recipients and non-recipients had worked at least half the time. 公 公 公

The Ferman-Miller study isolated a set of characteristics that tend to keep too many Americans in poverty, whether of the working or welfare variety rural origins with poor educational opportunity; migration to the city or elsewhere; lack of skills and training. These problems are compounded by racial minorities and for women. For these people good jobs are usually not available, no matter how much they want to work; for them, too, welfare can be of substantial assistance, and many take advantage of it without losing their desire to work and

difference in the problems of male and female welfare recipients. Contrary to stereotype, the women do not have large numbers of children, but they do tend to be the only workers in their families and they work for the lowest of wages. The men, on the other hand, usually make much better wages and sometimes are helped by a working wife or older child, but have such large families that they cannot adequately support them. In that situation, increased earnings for a female recipient is a possible solution; but it is not a likely solution for the male recipient, who probably needs - as Ferman and Miller argue - a family allowance plan.

They conclude that in any sensible approach to the poverty problem, "the emphasis should not be on welfare recipient versus non-recipient — meaningless categories — but rather on male workers versus female workers. Second, the emphasis should be shifted from the concept of a welfare problem to that of a labor market problem."

Obviously, if far more women than men are in the poverty class, whether welfare or working, any effective program will have to "result in wellpaying, prestigious careers for women as well as men." Just as obviously, if there are no real differences between the working and the welfare poor, the problem is not to get some people off welfare but to get far more people out of an economic dead end.

received baccalaureate and graduate degrees from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Friday at the close of the first summer session. About 500 students, more than a quarter of them graduate students, completed their work toward degrees at the end of the session. Several hundred more will graduate at the close of the second session on Aug. 17. Since only one formal commencement is held each year at the university, diplomas were distributed at the Administration Building. All of the graduates have been invited to take part in the commencement ceremony in May. The list:

States Need Land Planning To Avoid Impairing Clean Air

The New York Eimes

Washington - The Environmental Protection Agency served formal notice on the states Friday that they would have to embark on extensive land-use planning to avoid impairing the quality of air that is not now polluted. In effect, states will have to decide where new sources of air pollution may be situated, or how much pollution they will be allowed to emit, so that not only will federal air quality standards not be exceeded, but also that existing clean-air areas will remain substantially unsullied.

The agency tentatively proposed four ways that this might be done. One of the methods, which will be applicable to the whole country, will be adopted in about and September. The EPA action, resulting from a federal court interpretation of the Clean Air Act of 1970.

embodied probably the most farreaching inplications for future national economic and social growth of all the nation's pollution abatement efforts to date.

The basic effect of the action is, first, to prevent states from

Robert Fri, acting EPA administrator, said the agency had not been able to calculate what limits the new constraints might impose on over-all national growth. He said the EPA was not assuming any authority over such growth, but simply carrying four months, after public out the terms of the Clean Air cient immortals. Yet many older people still living knew him personally. When I talked with Joseph J. Mascuch, a retired inventor and electronics specialist in his 70s, he talked about Edison as an old friend. 'As a youthful inventor, Edison was my idol," said Mascuch. "I was just getting started at the time and was working. So I perked up my courage to visit the great Edison at his laboratory in West Orange, "Edison welcomed me at the door and invited me to sit down by him. He was a somewhat short man, partly bald, a bit stooped and hard of hearing. He

the great man was nearly 80, his wife worried that he was working too hard. One day she came to his laboratory and said, You ought to start enjoying life take a trip and go someplace interesting." Edison agreed and said he'd start tomorrow. The next morning he told his wife he was about to embark on the most exciting, enjoyable relaxing adventure he could imagine.

"Where are you going?" she asked. Replied Edison, "To my laboratory.'

PLAYMOBILE . . . pulls into neighborhood.

Playground on Wheels

By PATTY BEUTLER Star Staff Writer

It's not hard to tell when the Playmobile is on its way; the kids come running from all

"What kind of crafts you got today?"
"Who wants to play softball?" "Let's get the parachute out."

When the kids can't get to a playground the Park & Recreation Dept. believes the playground should go to the kids. And that's what the Playmobile does.

Equipped with everything from a ping pong table to an old parachute, the portable playground sets up shop at Brinkman Park (1st and L), Elliott School and Willard School on a rotating schedule.

"The kids know our schedule better than we do," related Patti Larsen who assists leader Bill Duncan in setting up and supervising the equipment at each location.

The converted dairy truck carries sports equipment and craft supplies as well as some small games for quiet play. All the equipment is geared to the elementary school

One of the favorite games is played with an old parachute. On the count of three, dozens of little hands poof up the parachute while as many pairs of feet scramble for a place beneath the slowly collapsing tent of air.

Crafts are also a favorite activity. Whether it's painting a trivet or weaving a pot-holder, the grade-school craftsmen work busily in the open air, undisturbed by the box-hockey players at their side.

Playing right alongside the youngsters, the Playmobile leaders generate enthusiasm among the kids while supervising activities. "It's not long before we get to know the kids pretty well," said Patti Larsen, noting that a core of regulars always comes each day.

"The kids confide in us," added Duncan, who explained that he tries to get to know the kids and about their families.

After two hours of fun and play, the balls and games and decoupage are packed into the Playmobile which wheels its way to another group of waiting children.

'. . . We're dealing with high fashion. We're not really into the old traditional business wear.'

ASSISTED . . . by Ron Ferris (center) and Wayne King (right), customer, Honor Brown, examines a fabric sample.

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON Star Staff Writer

A unique new clothing design shop - patterned after similar boutiques popular in many of the larger East and West Coast cities — recently opened its doors in the downtown Lincoln area.

Featuring what is commonly referred to as "high fashion clothing" for men and women, Bartholomew's, located at 119 No. 14th St., is the only establishment in Lincoln which sells apparel that is custom-designed for the individual.

According to Ron Ferris, who, along with Wayne King, owns the shop, Bartholomew's is the first such business venture in the Lincoln-Omaha area.

'There are places that do tailoring," he noted, "but this is the only one that specializes in designing and producing custom apparel.

Ron, who has studied business administration at the University of Nebraska and who has worked at a number of clothing stores, said the idea for the shop arose because he and Wayne saw a definite need for such a business in Lincoln

"As a result of talking with people we knew, and customers I sold clothes to," the idea was born, he stated. "People buy clothes in Los Angeles and New York because they like to get things that are different" - things that previously couldn't be obtained in the

'Usually, people come in here because they can't find what they want elsewhere," Wayne added.

Thus far, the shop's customers have been young people interested in the most current fashion trends. 'We haven't as yet designed anything for anyone over 25." Ron said.

However, as he continued, the reason for this became apparent. "We're dealing with high fashion. We're not really into the old, traditional business wear - although that's not to say that we couldn't go that way," he noted.

Further emphasizing the shop's potential versatility, he explained that, although basically concerned with formal wear, they "don't want to limit"

We can do just about anything. For example, this summer we've been trying to develop some new designs in 'shrinks' for men, and we've also done some caftans.

The actual designing is done by Wayne, who majored in fine arts at John F. Kennedy College in Wahoo, and Fairbury Junior College, and who was employed as an artist for the State Soil Conservation Service for a number of years. He has also studied with Houston, Tex. designer, Billy Williams.

When designing, Wayne said that he sometimes uses patterns or magazine pictures as guides, although a good deal of his work is completely original.

When a customer comes in, we get his ideas as to what he wants, and I go from there." Wayne observed. Some customers bring pictures or patterns which may be duplicated or modified to according to their wishes Ron explained.

'We have also sold some of our patterns," he con-

By fall, Wayne hopes to have a portfolio of sketches done to assist customers in selecting fashion

The entire process of a custom outfit — which involves discussing ideas, sketching, taking measurements and selecting fabric - takes about an hour, Wayne observed. And Ron added that it is advisable for customers to make an appointment before

We begin by talking with the individual — finding out what he likes to do, what colors and fabrics he likes, how he likes to socialize, what kind of wardrobe

In most cases, while this discussion is going on, Wayne begins his pen and ink sketch (color is added later) - although Ron added that some customers prefer to leave after explaining what they want, and return later when the sketch is done.

When the drawing has been completed, and the fabric selected (the shop stocks a variety of material and can special order "just about anything"), 28 measurements are taken to insure proper fit.

The fitting sheet and design then go to the pattern maker for drafting, after which the pattern and selected fabric are taken to a seamstress for the actual

"We currently have nine tailors working for us,"

A week later, the customer comes in for the first fitting, during which he tries on the unfinished garment and any necessary adjustments are made.

Creating Custom Apparel

The garment is then returned to the seamstress for completion, and a final fitting takes place within another week. If further alteration is necessary, this is done; or, if the garment is "ready to go" (i.e., if it fits properly) it is pressed and readied for delivery.

Ron said that, in most cases, all of the alterations are taken care of during the first fitting. "We try to get everything out on the first fitting," he explained.

In addition to designing fashions, Bartholomew's stocks a line of accessories, including walking sticks, and men's hats and leather bags - and Wayne plans to go to Mexico in the near future to purchase a variety of These accessories add to the total high fashion look to which the shop is dedicated.

'We've done very well with walking sticks," Ron noted, adding that they are stylish as well as functional. Most that they sell are from Italy, and many are adorned with hand-carved figures.

Hats - especially those fashioned of straw - and men's shoulder bags have also been very popular this spring and summer Ron added. Bartholomew's — which was named after a friend Wavne and Ron met while researching design shops in California — is also concerned with women's fashion

"We design for both men and women." Ron said. 'Good suit fabrics can also be used for women's clothing. And the fall fabrics we've ordered will certainly be appropriate for both.

In addition, this week a woman designer was added to the staff at the shop.

As for future plans, Ron noted that "We're putting lots of our fabric inventory into wools and manmade furs to be used in making coats this winter." And, eventually, they hope to go into tailoring, "when space permits.

Farm Compromise Sought By Butz, Representatives

WASHINGTON (AP) - ment agriculture policies. Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz and House leaders intensified their search Friday for a compromise farm bill.

Meanwhile, sources close to the House Agriculture Committee suggested leading options include cutting the pending fouryear bill to a two-year version that would ease its federal budget impact, or extending the existing 1970 law one year.

Without passage of new legislation or an extension of current law, the 1970 Agriculture Act will expire Dec. 31. The session was called to explore compromises to bring to the floor when the House resumes voting on the bill Monday, although there is no guarantee that the House will accept any such proposals. # Mexico, U.S. Border Electronically Fenced

The New York Times

Washington - A complex series of electronic devices, similar in nature to the ill-fated 'McNamara line" in Vietnam, is being implanted along the 2,000mile border between the United States and Mexico and may be completed as early as mid-1974, according to sources in the Border Patrol and Immigration and Naturalization Service.

The electronic "fence," begun in a test program nearly three years ago in the 65-mile Chula Vista sector along the California-Mexico border, includes a sophisticated series of pressuresensitive devices, buried wires and infrared detection equip-

Because the devices are designed to detect the presence and movement of people, the electronic line is expected, when fully installed, to provide "intrusion prevention" for both illegal aliens and drug smugglers moving across the border.

In the Chula Vista area last year, 128,889 persons were apprehended while trying to cross the border illegally. More than 30,000 of the arrests were attributed to the presence of the electronic fence criticism from some members of Congress who have expressed concern that the "tradition of maintaining the border without armed troops" might be broken.

Some of the devices are so sensitive that, according to a military police officer who worked with the same type in Vietnam, "they can detect anything that moves — giving an indication of movement, volume of movement, precisely what is

The sensors include 'geophones," a type of seismic microphone buried in the ground to transmit wireless detection of ground movement and its type and volume; "strainsensitive cable," buried wires that stretch, transmitting a blip to a receiving station whenever anything produces pressure on that area of ground or within 150 feet of it; and infrared detectors that respond to body heat.

Border patrol officers who have used the devices for more than two years in the Chula Vista sector said that the devices resulted in 20 to 30 per cent of the apprehensions of illegal entrants in the last year.

fiscal year for the program, Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Texas, which is already drawing said, "the concept of a barrier was repugnant to me because I felt there would be some inherent international psychological repercussions that should be evaluated before any commitment is made," he

"I believe techniques now available, such as helicopter surveillance and other normal procedures, would be more than adequate if the Border Patrol is staffed at a sufficient level, which it hasn't been.

The first such sensor system was proposed in 1967 for installation along the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam and along portions of the Ho Chi Minh Trail in an effort to detect North Vietnamese troop and supply movements. The system was quickly dubbed the 'McNamara line," named for Robert S. McNamara, former secretary of defense.

Border Patrol and Immigration and Naturalization Service officials declined to discuss the 'strategic use" of the electronic line, but they noted that it operated similarly to the "McNamara line," with mobile patrol officers responding after receiving a two-way radio call from a central dispatcher that movement had been noted at a particular sensor.

University of Nebraska Presineed funding from the dent D. B. Varner said Friday he Legislature for any program eswas not surprised by an attorney general's opinion Thursday which said in effect that the option to accept the Hiram Scott College campus in Scottsbluff rests with the university.

"We have been operating under the assumption that the Board of Regents has the authority to accept any gift they judge to be beneficial to the university," Varner said.

The 1973 Legislature adopted a motion to accept the offer of Scottsbluff area interests to give the campus facilities to the state. mailed about June 27 and had to be in the hands of the federal government prior to July 1, after which the building would have been up for grabs by other federal government agencies if the state didn't want it.

The library science building was built using U.S. Health. Education and Welfare Department funds and thus when the college closed, ownership reverted to that department.

There are still two parcels left of the college which as yet aren't within the grasp of the Universi-

One of the parcels is the one which the Legislature technically accepted by means of a motion adopted on June 1. But as yet the parcel hasn't been delivered.

That parcel is owned by the Scottsbluff-Gering Development Corp. and includes 225 acres of land, the president's house, a rental house, a barn and a metal

Local Churches To Host Picnic, Outdoor Worship

The congregations of Christ United Methodist Church, and the Cheney United Methodist Church will host an outdoor worship celebration at Pinewood Bowl at 10 a.m. Sunday, July 22. The service will be followed by a picnic in Pioneers Park.

"We are cordially inviting the public to take part in this event," said the Rev. Dr. Melvon Ireland, pastor of Christ Church.

The two congregations have cancelled regular worship and church school schedules for the day. Members of Aldersgate United Methodist Church are also expected to attend, although the regular 9:45 a.m. worship will be at the church.

Omaha — If royalty is truly an overwhelming power, then Royal Knight may make Nebraska horse racing history late Saturday afternoon at Ak-Sar-Ben.

The brilliant colt has enjoyed a perfect reign as Nebraska's 3-year-old champion since his owner, Ken Opstein of South Sioux City, brought him to the Cornhusker state in late April.

But he may face his stiffest challenge in Saturday's sixth running of the President's Cup, which has attracted eight starters. If all eight start, then the total value of race would be

So Royal Knight has a chance to win the richest purse ever in Nebraska by winning the mile and 1/8th test for 3-year-olds.

And what would be more appropriate than to have the richest race ever on the day Ak closes its 55-day meeting under an onslaught of mutuel handle and attendance records?

This scamper will be 1/16th of a mile longer than the $54,-725 Omaha Gold Cup on June 30 that Royal Knight won by three lengths over eight foes, including five he will face Saturday.

Owned by the Crimson King Farm of Lathrup Village, Mich., Crimson Falcon owns a 1973 record of 2 wins, 4 seconds and 2 thirds in 11 starts.

But, unlike the Gold Cup which was an allowance stakes, the President's Cup is a handicap with weights assigned by racing secretary John Maluvius.

Royal Knight must shoulder a career-high of 129 pounds, while Pro Raja gets 114 pounds and Crimson Falcon has second high-weight of 120 pounds.

Jockey J.L. Lively, who has captured a record-tying third straight Ak riding championship, has chosen to ride Royal Knight. Opstein had given him a choice between Royal Knight and Princely Pleasure, Opstein's standout 2-year-old, who is racing in Saturday's Washington-Arlington Park Futurity at Arlington Park near Chicago.

But a touted invader, who was unable to handle the "off track" in the Gold Cup, is being counted on to improve his sixthplace effort — 21 lengths behind the Opstein scooter.

Star Sports Writer Omaha - It was Friday the 13th - that unlucky day that makes people walk especially careful around black cats and avoid ladders like the plague. It was also the day that two highlyregarded foes once again went head-to-head in a battle that saw each fail to reach first, second, or third over a mile and 70 yards at Ak-Sar-Ben.

But it was a lucky day for trainer R. J. Buchanan and jockey Jack Fieselman as Beau Julian scored a 11/2 length victory in the $25,000-added Nebraska Racing Hall of Fame Handicap, outlegging the two favorites Kenneth Opstein's Haveago and Joey Bob, owned by Jack Van Berg and Joe Adcock.

That pair, who have dueled each other in their last three starts with Haveago winning the George Brandeis Memorial and the $79,775 Board of Governor's Handicap while Joey Bob won by a neck in the $56,050 Cornhusker Handicap, drew most of the bettors' attention prior to the race but neither raced according to the form they had established in the past.

Fieselman, wearing green racing silks with a large red rose on the back, ignored the heavy commotion being stirred up around the two co-favorites in the paddock during the saddling and slouched comfortably on a bench with a half-smile while he watched the saddling procedures.

When it came time to go to the track, he stood up and calmly climbed into the saddle and took Beau Julian through his pre-race workouts before entering the starting gate. And he kept his composure throughout the race, holding Beau Julian where he wanted him before making his move at the five-sixteenths pole.

"I just rode him the way Buck told me to," the happy Fieselman said. "I held him in until the five-sixteenths pole then moved him past on the inside. I just laid in and saved ground while keeping off the pace then hit him a couple of times to get him going and took him inside. It came as quite a surprise to Fieselman, however, when he learned he was going to ride Beau Julian in the race. He found that out just after galloping him over a mile early Friday morning.

"I don't know who was going to ride him," Fieselman said. "I got the ride this morning. That's the first time I've ever been up on the horse so I didn't know how he could handle at the break or if he would go when I asked him or what.

"As it turned out, he did everything just perfect." he added. "He rode one hell of a race," trainer Buchanan said. "We've been spotting Haveago weight all year long and it finally caught up to him." Haveago was topweighted at 126, with Joey Bob carrying 123 as compared to Beau Julian's 113.

"He (Beau Julian) likes this kind of a dry track," Buchanan said. "I knew that all Jackson had to do was to hit him around the quarter pole and he would make up his mind which way he wanted to go. Inside or out, it wouldn't have made any difference. He was ready to

Holmes 15th In Publinks

Flanders, N.J. (AP) — Robert Holmes of Omaha shot a 74 Friday at the Flanders Valley Golf Course to bring his threeround total to 226 in the United States Public Links golf tournament. Holmes currently ranks in a three-way tie for a share of 15th place. Holmes trails leader Phil Reichel of Bloomington, Minn., by nine strokes.

That set the stage for the drama of the 18th. Bert Yancey, three strokes Weiskopf out behind Weiskopf at the start, crumbled with a 73 for 211 and Jack Nicklaus played a round of 76 he will quickly want to forget to drop him nine strokes behind on 215.

Miller's 69 was the low round of the day and was matched by a couple of Britons, including Peter Oosterhuis who led the Masters after three rounds, but Miller faded on the killer back nine as the windswept 7,064 yard Troon course began to exact its revenge.

TROON, Scotland (UPI) -

drenching rain on the 18th green today and held his breath.

Johnny Miller was addressing a 20-foot putt which, if he made it, would leave the pair tied for the lead after three rounds of the British Open golf championship. Miller, the reigning U.S.

Open champion, sent the putt true to the cup, but the ball ringed the hole and came out.

giving Miller a bogey five and Weiskopf a one stroke lead at 206

Miller, who had torn Troon apart with a 32 for the first nine, faltered coming in, while Weiskopf had to rally from a near fatal 37 on the front nine.

The Columbus, Ohio, hero, winner of over $100,000 in the last seven weeks, had had opening rounds of 68 and 67, but began his third round by bogeying the first and third dous six on the par four ninth.

for his 37-74-71 today.

A couple of British Ryder Cup players, Neil Coles and Brian Barnes, also thrust themselves into contention in fourth place with 213s, while young Lanny Wadkins was fifth on 214, one stroke ahead of Nicklaus and Christy O'Connor or Ireland.

Weiskopf started badly by bogeving the first hole. He got a bird at the second but ran into further trouble with another bogey at the third at which stage he was tied with Miller and Yancey at seven under par.

The 6-4 Columbus, Ohio swinger got his swing under control and now birdied three of the next four holes to regain a share of the lead with Miller, who was on a birdie barrage with four on the first eight holes, but a double bogey on the ninth allowed Miller to turn for home with a two stroke lead.

Miller was four under for the day to turn in 32, against the 37 of Weiskopf and Yancey's 34, which left the latter two in a tie for second place.

The battle was really on when Weiskopf and Miller each birdied the par five 11th, and when Weiskopf birdied the 13th he was within one stroke of regaining the lead.

Wesikopf made par for the remaining five holes as Miller bogeved the 15th and 18th to surrender the lead.

Yancey had appearred in good shape when he birdied the 10th to stand nine under but he made four bogeys in the last eight holes to drop out of contention.

Nicklaus, who had an in-andout outward half of 37, blew away his chances with a trio of bogeys between the 12th and weiskopf who is still searching for his first major tournament win.

"When Johnny got shead I with a bogey five when he overhit the first green and then hooked a one-iron off the tee into the left bunker on the par 4 third for another five. "I hit a diabolic five iron on ding Ray Charles is the bank teller," said Weiskopf. and a birdie two at the 126-yard "Postage Stamp" eighth then came the ninth. "I hit the worst golf shot I ball to the left at least 100 yards off line—I was lucky to find it," said Weiskopf who emerged from the front nine two shots

Smith Captures Tourney

Ed Smith captured his first Lincoln Senior Men's City Golf title Friday at Hillcrest Country Club by finishing with a 74 and 72-hole total of 302.

Defending champion Paul Anderson had a 79 Friday for a 309 and second place. Dale Wismer was third with a 78 and 310 and Larry Rowan fourth at 78 and 311. Smith led after the first and third days and only trailed by two strokes after the second day with a 152 to leader Dale Wismer's 150.

'Everyone' In Picture At Robinson Golf Meet

$125,000 Shrine-Robinson Open turned an amazing chapter in tournament golf Friday with six to go, 80 players have a chance to players sharing the 36-hole lead. and, in all, nearly 80 more within six shots of the top.

Sharing the lead at 137 were two rabbits out of the PGA hutch of unexempted players-Mike Morley, 27, of Minot, N.D. and Bobby Greenwood, 34, of Cookeville, Tenn. They had respective second rounds of 64 and Grouped with them were defending champion Grier Jones, who shot a 68; Dean Beman, 68; Babe Hiskey, 69; and Charles Coody, who hasn't won since taking the 1971 Masters, 69.

Veteran PGA officials said they never before have seen such a huge bunching of players at the midway mark of a tour tournament, either with as many as six sharing the lead or so many within such close range of them.

Hastings Tips T. O. Haas, 4-3

Hastings scored in the top of the ninth inning Friday night at Sherman Field in a junior legion midget baseball contest to defeat T. O. Haas, 4-3.

The junior legion game between Lincoln Gerry's and Bellevue was postponed because of rain and rescheduled for July 21 at 8 p.m.

York Downs Franklin Co.

York - York defeated Franklin Co., 5-2, here Friday night in a junior legion midget baseball game.

AAA Softball Meet Slated

A round-robin fast-pitch softball tournament, hosted by Lincoln AAA League member Red Barn of Goehner, has been scheduled for Saturday in Beaver Crossing and Goehner.

Offutt Air Base, leading the Tri-City League in Omaha, and Grand Island Pizza Hut, leading the Grand Island loop, will join Mason Bowes, Valentino's and Red Barn, all of the Lincoln league, in the competition.

All teams will play at least four games with playoffs scheduled if ties occur. Falstaff of Council Bluffs, which won the tourney last year, will not field a team.

The schedule

Goehner — 1 p.m. Red Barn vs. Mason Bowes. Beaver Crossing — 1 p.m. Valen-ting's vs. Offutt.

Circo Retains Girls Crown

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (AP)-Nanette Circo of Omaha Friday won her third consecutive Nebraska State Junior Girls Golf Tournament.

Miss Circo, 17, defeated Kathy Morrissey of Syracuse 5-4 in the championship flight. The tournament is open to girls 12 to 17 years old. Other winners were:

First flight: Janet Weekes, South Sioux City, defeated Jane Deeter, Lincoln, 2-1.

Second flight-Ann Mariucci, Omaha defeated Shervl Hanna. Millard, 1 up on 19.

Third flight-Susie Covne, Omaha defeated Mary Nabity, Grand Island, 7-6.

Fourth flight-Stephanie Fuhrman, Norfolk, defeated Cindy

Vogel, Grand Island, 1 up.

Dallas-Morton Split Continues

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) - Veteran quarterback Craig Morton walked out of the Dallas Cowboys' training camp Friday, threatening retirement unless he gets a new contract or is traded. Morton, 30, an eight-year National Football League veteran, left the California Lutheran College camp after meeting Thursday night and Friday morning with Tex Schramm, Cowboys' president.

Morton could not be reached immediately for comment. Schramm said Morton, who is under current contract for another year, requested terms and conditions which the club was unable to meet. No details were eleased.

"That he raised the issue at his time came as a complete urprise to me," Schramm said.

"Craig and I have talked several"

"Craig and I have talked several times this spring about the new contract but were unable to reach an agreement.

"I'm still hopeful that Craig will change his mind. He did ask me to pursue the possibility of a trade but, if this did not prove feasible, he indicated that he was prepared to go into private business.

Coach Tom Landry said he did not meet with Morton, who arrived Thursday along with other quarterbacks, centers and receivers. He said there was no question of discipline at this time as all veteran players in camp before next Monday are there voluntarily.

Men's Amateur Golf Gets Heavy Entries

Grand Island - Approximately 200 entries have been received for the Men's State Amateur Championship golf tournament, set to begin July 25, but according to Don Stern, Nebraska Amateur Golf Association tournament chairman, the entry limit will remain at 150.

Pairings will be announced July 18. The only practice round at the Highland Country Club in Omaha will be the pro-am event on July 24.

Haynie Leads Golf Tourney

HORSHAM, Pa. (AP) -Sandra Haynie, back on the women's pro golf tour after a week of rest, shot a three-underpar 70 Friday to take the firstround lead in the $30,000 George Washington Golf Classic.

The 30-year-old Miss Haynie, one of the most consistent players on the tour, scored 33-37 over the 6,150-yard Hidden Springs Country Club course. She fired two birdies and an eagle in a three-under front nine, and played the backside in par with one bird and one bogev.

Defending champion Kathy Ahern was grouped one-stroke back at two-under 71, with Judy Rankin, who won here three years ago, and Debbie Austin. There were seven players at 72-Gloria Ehert, Kathy Martin, Gail Dennenberg, Pam Higgins, Bonnie Bryant, Mary Mills and Sharon Miller.

A $27 million operating budget for the 1973-74 fiscal year was approved by the Lincoln Electric System (LES) Administrative Board Friday.

The budget, which is a part of the mayor's proposal, now goes to the City Council for review and final adoption.

The budget also provides $19.7 million for operating expenses, of which $14.3 million would go for purchasing power from the Nebraska Public Power District

The capital construction budget comes to $7.6 million, including $1.15 million appropriated to place a major 115kv transmission line underground

In other action the board authorized a $1,500 contribution to the Energy Policy task Force, a consumers organization. The task force is headed by ex-Nebraskan, Lee White, former chairman of the Federal Power Commission.

LES Administrator Walt Canney reported the organization will offer Congress and the Nixon administration data and recommendations on solving the energy crisis.

In recommending the contribution, Canney pointed to the the current fiscal year audit. Additionally, the board authorized Canney to proceed with acquisition of NPPD transmission facilities in or near the LES service area. The action establishes the policy that the utility will normally own all transmission facilities located within its service area.

Specific facilities included are 115 ky and 161 ky lines and substations and additional lines and substations as required.

2 Storms Cost LES $28,731

Storms in the Lincoln area July 1 and 3 cost the Lincoln Electric System (LES) an estimated $28,731.

LES Administrator Walt Canney said Friday that the cost included $5,600 for replacement equipment, $2,500 for the use of trucks and mobile equipment and $1,100 for meals for employes who worked long stretches to repair the damage from wind, rain and lightning.

The two storms, which were only 48 hours apart "cost us a lot of time and a lot of money, Canney commented.

LES had about 400 line breaks from wind, branches or falling trees and lighting, which caused outages for 2,000 customers. Additionally, 17 transformers were hit by lightning and three poles were knocked down.

The LES Administrative Board went on record commending the employes for working to clean up the damage.

Nominees Get Committee OK

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate Armed Services Committee Friday approved the nominations of John L. McLucas to be secretary of the Air Force and Gen. George Brown to be

Air Force chief of staff. McLucas has been air force undersecretary since March followed Wisotzkey from a 1969. Brown was Air Force commander in Vietnam from August 1968 until August 1970. Both men were questioned at a hearing by Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, about unauthorized bombing raids over North Vietnam in 1968.

Brown said he had no knowledge at the time that any U.S. aircraft violated a ban on North Vietnam raids except in retaliation for attacks on reconnaissance craft, and he denied any role in the subsequent

McLucas said he also was not involved in the unauthorized wanted the bus system to operate under a department of city government rather than under a transit authority, contended the law in question was invalid because it exempted the system from regulation by the Public Servce Commission.

"There is no merit to this contention of the plaintiff," the Supreme Court said.

But more important, the court said, "the plaintiff has in no way demonstrated that this feature of the (law) operates to his disadvantage. The court noted that it said in previous rulings a private citizen may attack the constitutionality of a statute only when and so far as it is being, or is about to be, applied to his disadvantage."

In the case at bar, the court said Ritums had no proof he was being placed at a disadvantage and just because he paid a property tax did not "give him the power to vindicate any rights which the Public Service Commission may have" to question even had there been a constitutional issue worthy of being

As to the law, the court said Ritums "misconceives the rhetoric of the present act."

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)-The F-B-I has entered the investigation of a Friday afternoon Omaha bank robbery.

Police say shortly after 3 p.m. an armed bandit took an undetermined amount of cash from the Security National Bank of Authorities say the man walked up to a teller's window, pulled a pistol, and demanded money. After taking the money, the man fled on foot, then jumped into a car which reportedly bore Iowa license plates. Bank Manager Paul Hanley said he was sitting at his desk in the rear of the bank and didn't realize anything was going on until he saw the man bolt out of the Hanley said the teller immediately informed him of what had happened, and he ran out of the building just in time to see the man jumping over a small fence which surrounds the bank.

The bandit remained at large Friday night, and bank officials had begun an audit to determine how much money was taken

is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
